MAD ARTIST CITED

At our Annual Dinner each year, The National Cartoonists Society presents awards to cartoonists in recognition of their outstanding work in the profession. The highlight of the dinner is the presentation of the "Reuben" to the "Cartoonist of the Year." This year, the "Reuben" went to Hal Foster, creator of "Prince Valiant." In addition, beautiful silver plaques are presented to winners in our eight categories of cartooning. MAD's Wallace Wood was voted top man in his category, and received the plaque for "The Best Comic Artist of 1957." Wally has been an active member of The Society for many years, and we are all delighted that he has received this recognition of his wonderful work.

WHO IS HE?

Please! I've got to know! Who is the guy who was: (1) a grocery clerk in the Jan. issue's "Strangely Believe It," (2) an airline passenger in the March issue's "Strangely Believe It," (3) "Max" in "Nobody Has Any Fun at Parties" in that same issue, and (4) a guest enjoying "Party Games" in the May issue?

COMMENTARY

Every time I see a copy of MAD, I am impressed by its wit and satire, which requires a reader of more than ordinary erudition. It must be a commentary of some sort that the one publication which assumes that teen-agers have sufficient brains and education to appreciate cleverly wrought comments upon the passing scene is entitled "MAD."

Merrill S. Lifton

The New York City

High School Press Conference

Yeah, but what's "erudition" mean? — Ed.

MISSING PLENTY

In your latest issue, nearby your Alfred E. Neuman University, you show a sorority house bearing the three Greek letters Alpha Phi Omega. The constitution of Alpha Phi Omega, The National Service Fraternity made up of ex-boy scouts, implicitly prohibits the fair sex among the membership. We would like to know how the chapter at AEN U. accomplished this, as we feel that our Gamma Psi chapter of APO seems to be missing plenty.

MAD ALL-STARS

I am a devoted fan of your magazine. In my spare time, I organized a team and called it "The Mad All-Stars." We go from place to place playing other teams in and around Kingston. We have uniforms, with the word "MAD" printed on our shirts in big letters. We are just about through for the season, and are still undefeated. We really have some time playing under your name.

IMITATIONS

I have been a devoted fan of MAD for a long time, having purchased MAD jewelry and MAD T-Shirts. The reason why I am writing this letter is because now I am really "mad"! If there is one thing I can't stand, it's people who try to cash in on the hard work of others. You have worked hard to get where you are today, and all these so-called imitations are just sitting back trying to steal your faithful readers.

IT ISN'T FARE

I spent about two and a half hours adding up all the fares in your "Coast-To-Coast For $16.75," and guess what? They actually added up to exactly $16.75. Wise guys, eh!

Bob Lilienthal

New York City

Nuts to you for pulling such an unscrupulous trick. After hours of checking, adding, calculating, and trying to figure out how to spell such words as these, I couldn't find a single mistake in the total of the fares in "Coast-To-Coast." I should have known you'd finally pull something like this.

THROW THE BOOK AT 'EM DEPT.

With school teachers and parents showing increased alarm over "Why Johnny Can't Read", MAD decided to assign its Educational Research Council to make a study of this pressing problem. The Council reports back that Johnny can't read because (1) he's a clod, and (2) he just can't get interested in the old fashioned primers still in use in most schools. We'd be crazy to solve the former, 'cause then nobody would buy MAD. But we can take care of the latter by replacing old-fashioned dull primers with up-to-date editions of . . .

THE MAD PRIMER

PICTURES BY JOE ORLANDO

Lesson 1.

I am Irving
I have a dog.
His name is Schlep.
I teach Schlep to bite the postman.
I do not like the postman because he brings bills and my daddy's draft notices.
The postman does not like me because I am nasty.
Schlep and I like each other.
That figures.

Lesson 2.

I am still Irving.
Sometimes I go to grandpa's farm.
Grandpa's name is Farmer Brown.
He is not really a farmer.
He runs a hot car ring.
Sometimes grandpa lets me put phony license plates on the hot cars.
I like to go see grandpa.
The police would like to see grandpa, too.

Lesson 3.

Irving again.
I am in the first grade.
My teacher is Miss Furd.
I tell the school board Miss Furd is a Commie.
The school board investigates Miss Furd.
Miss Furd is through in this town.

3

Lesson 4.

I am Sadie.
I am Irving's sister.
This is not the best thing in the world to be.
I have a kitty.
Her name is Fred.
I want to be a nurse someday.
I perform medical experiments on Fred.
Fred lies very still after the experiments.
Rest in peace, Fred.

4

Lesson 5.

Yoo hoo already.
It's me again—Sadie.
Irving and I have many toys to play with.
Our mother gets them for us at the store.
Our mother is a klepto.
We like the toys she brings us.
Sometimes I let Irving play with my toys.
Sometimes Irving lets me play with his toys.
Big deal.

5

Lesson 6.

Our daddy works downtown.
He works in a big office building.
He wheels and deals.
Sometimes he writes company checks to pay off his bookie.
Some day the auditors will come.
Bye-bye, Daddy.

6

Lesson 7.

This is Bobby Smith.
He is our playmate.
Bobby sells reefers to the other children at school.
Sometimes we buy a stick from Bobby.
We light up behind the garage.
Crazy, man.

7

Lesson 8.

This is Mr. Johnson.
He runs the store in our neighborhood.
He sells meat, vegetables and fruit.
Sometimes while he is selling these things,
we sneak in and steal candy.
Sometimes Mr. Johnson catches us.
He says we are no better than common criminals.
We will fix his wagon on Halloween.

8

Lesson 9.

Hello again already. Sadie speaking.
Irving and I like to go to the zoo.
One day our daddy took us to see the animals.
Irving crawled into the lion's cage.
I asked my daddy to save Irving.
My daddy just smiled and took me home.
Irving came home later.
Tough luck.

9

Lesson 10.

Irving here.
It is Christmas Day at our house.
Santa Claus brought me a bicycle, blocks,
a cowboy suit, an electric train and mittens.
Santa Claus brought Sadie a new doll, a party dress, a coloring book and mittens.
We think Santa Claus is a fink.
I mean what's this with the mittens?

DON MARTIN DEPT. PART I

Ever since we discovered and first presented Don Martin to the reading public, we here at MAD have lived in mortal fear of one day losing him to a bigger and richer magazine . . . like The Ladies Home Journal, f'rinstance. However, as time passed, and more and more of Mr. Martin's zany works appeared in MAD, that fear has been dispelled. Looks like nobody else will have anything to do with him! But we still love him. So here we go again, with the first of this issue's collection of Don's off-beat humor . . . said collection being called

FREE-LOADING DEPT.

Attention, all you schlock publishers who have never had an original idea in your lives! With MAD's circulation now over the one million mark, now is the time to hop on the old gravy train! So take Abe Lincoln's advice: "You can fool some of the people some of the time..." and try to fool them! Put out an imitation of MAD! Cash in on MAD's six years of hard work building a reputation in the humor and satire field! To help you, so you won't have to do any thinking, and thereby upset the usual pattern of your careers, take your mind off your secretary and study this special article which mainly tells you

TITLE

First, you'll need a name for your imitation. It should be a short name that sounds funny and looks funny. It should give the idea that you're putting out a crazy off-beat satire magazine. Like, for instance the name "MAD." Only don't use "MAD" because we can sue the pants off you! To help you pick a name that's close to or means "MAD," here is a section from our copy of Roget's Thesaurus. You probably don't have a copy, so we've saved you the expense of going out and buying one. Note all the wonderful synonyms for "MAD" you can choose from.

503. Mad

(See 502. Sanity; also 842. Wit)

1. adj. mad, senseless, crazy, cracked, stupid, nuts, idiotic, frenzy, loco, batty, goofy, humbug [Briticism], wacky, thimk, [coll.], daffy, loony, panic [dial.], screwy, psychopathic, trump [arch.], wild, life, look, colliers etc. (mentally deficient) 499.13

COVER

Second, design a cover for your imitation that looks like MAD. Here is an old MAD cover to copy. Note the border. Note the confusion. Note that our covers don't even look like this anymore! But then, you can't tell what we'll do next, so stick to the good old tried and proven formula!

TRADE MARK

It is important in imitating MAD that you adopt a mascot or trademark to represent the theme of your magazine. Like we use Alfred E. Neuman, the "What—Me Worry?" kid (below). You could use like a plasterer, or a cat that drinks whiskey, or a guy who swallows his nose, or a crutch...you know, really funny things like that.

HOW TO PUT OUT AN IMITATION OF

INDEX PAGE

Next, design an index page. On second thought, don't design an index page. Copy MAD's index page exactly. After all, you're trying to fool people. This might give them the impression that your imitation is another magazine put out by the same gang that puts out MAD. This might give them the impression that we have no trouble at all just putting out MAD and keeping its quality high. This might give them the impression that we're greedy and mercenary. This might give them the impression we're like you!

Put name you have picked here. If possible, copy lettering style. Don't forget! You're desperate!

Put in a funny quote here. Remember, you're trying to imitate MAD. If MAD has a quote, you have a quote!

Include an impressive list of your staff here. If your staff isn't very impressive, make up list of phony names!

Since MAD has departments, make sure you place each of your articles in a different department... and don't let on that they all belong in one department: sanitation!

VITAL FEATURES

THE MAD PRIMER

MAD solves problem of "why Johnny can't read" with a new primer, which creates problem of "why Johnny turns delinquent!"

GO WEST, OLD FORMAT

An article telling some failing "Easterns" to go "Western," which should bring replies from them, telling MAD where to go.

SNOB APPEAL VS SLOB APPEAL

Maybe there'd be less of a depression if Mad, Ave. appealed to slobs instead of snobs in their ads, or there are lots more of us.

THE NEW ROTTEN CIRCUS

Henry Morgan, lamenting how much the old circus has changed, crawls under the tent in an attempt to sneak out instead of in.

HOW TO PLAY GOLF

Ben Hogan is responsible for this worthless piece on how to play golf. We pleaded with him, but he just refused to write it.

THE WRONG LIONS

The familiar saying that "the book was better than the picture" is proven correct by this article, which is worse than both.

BOATING

With millions of boating fans hitting the water as this cruise spreads, MAD pulls out all the stops, and sinks along with them.

THE NATIONAL OSOGRAPHC

A trek across the Sahara could never be as dry as the article describing it in the magazine you find in most doctors' offices.

Always include a gag name in staff list, like maybe "Publisher's Mother," or "Editor's Cat." Refer to our back issues for these.

List best articles here, and include a five line gag, even if it has nothing to do with the article.

Include a small section of art taken from each article. Better still, include a small section of art taken from MAD.

Talking about art taken from MAD, instruct all your artists to copy or trace the styles of the artists we use. Matter-of-fact, don't even hire any artists. Just photostat our original pages.

Don't make the mistake we make in giving our readers their money's worth. 48 pages costs lots more than say 40 pages or 32 pages. Shoot for them big profits.

A satire on "Believe It Or Not" is a must, as they are very popular... especially when they look like the ones Ernie Kovacs writes for us

Be sure to include a letter page. We know this is rough with the first issue, but you can always write the letters yourself. Anyway, you'll need practice for the second issue. Mention MAD at least three times.

Copy this notice exactly. Especially that bit about "satiric purpose." Which in your case is a coincidence!

Be sure to swipe the "Scenes We'd Like To See" type article. Anything to identify with MAD.

If you want your imitation to look like MAD, you have to have marginals, even if they don't make any sense!..

SO THERE YOU ARE! NOW GET RIGHT TO WORK... AND GOOD LUCK!
YOU'LL NEED IT! MAD READERS ARE SMARTER THAN YOU THINK! 13

loon? The pink cotton candy, and the foolish mouthwash drinks, and the taffy? There was a pretty girl who let an elephant step on her head. There was a tiny automobile and sixteen clowns got out. There was a house on fire and a whole clown fire company came and put it out. There were exciting chariot races. There was a rodeo, and toward the end of it a pretty girl on a white horse lassoed seven wild stallions. There was an elephant who could balance on a ball, and one who could stand on his front legs. There was a seal who played "My Country 'Tis of Thee" on horns, and got a fish. There was an animal trainer who risked his life in a cage with ferocious lions and tigers. There was a man on stilts who was at least thirty feet high. There were numbered ponies who came out alone and, although all mixed up, finally found their correct sequence. There was a man who piled up kitchen tables, sat on a chair way on top of them, and teetered back and forth until he finally fell down. There was a clown who lost his bustle, whistled for it, and it came running up to him. There was another clown who had a Rube Goldberg cigarette lighting machine on a little cart. There was an acrobat who somersaulted all around the track. There were handsome death-defying trapeze flyers who worked hundreds of feet up without a net, and pretty girls who hung by their teeth and spun in the air. There was a distinguished, imposing, whip-cracking Ringmaster with a booming voice. There was sawdust all over the place, and it smelled of animals and peanuts and little kids.

Today, all this has been improved upon!

TEE AND SYMPATHY DEPT.

A recent psychiatric survey reveals that the same type of emotional disturbance that drives people to read MAD may also drive them to play golf. So to start all you potential golf players off right, we've called in the veteran pro from the Cowznofski Country Club, "Slammin'" Stanley Snide for a few hot tips on ...

HOW TO PLAY

1. THE GRIP

It was either Walter Hagen or Louise Suggs who was first credited with saying, "You cannot play the game of golf without you hold the club!" Such a statement shows the tremendous insight of a veteran pro like Walter (unless it was Louise). The hands are generally considered the best portion of the human anatomy to use in grasping the club. The grip should not be too tight, but should be about the same consistency as one would use in clutching a dead trout. Holding the club like a billiard cue is no longer considered good form in playing golf.

3. CHOOSING YOUR CLUBS

It is a good rule of thumb to select clubs that will reach from where you are to the ground. Many otherwise brilliant rounds of golf have been ruined by the improper use of clubs, which cause the golfer to play from four to five inches above the course. Tournament players have been known to carry as many as fourteen clubs in their bags. But the beginner can get by satisfactorily with a mashie, a niblick, a cleeker, two gimmers, a hoblong, a glugger, and a goober:

5. THE FAIRWAY SHOT

It should always be remembered that in getting the ball from the tee to the green, the best route to follow is down the middle of the fairway. And no one knows this better than Phil "Porky" Pitnash, who recalls this incident which took place in the 1935 National Open: "I was on the dog-leg 16th at Medinah, and I hooked my tee shot into the woods. I pitched to the green in one, two-putted for a par four, and then I forgot about the incident entirely!"

GOLF

PICTURES BY GEORGE WOODBRIDGE

2. FOOTWORK

The question most often asked by the beginning golfer is, "Where shall I place my feet?" After many years of experience, I am convinced that the best results are achieved by leaving them on the ground... the soles downward. The feet should not be moved, except when one is pursuing the ball down the fairway between shots.

Waiting

4. THE DRIVE

The drive is one of the most important parts of the game of golf. Trial and error is the recommended method of finding the drive best suited to you. A good drive for the beginning golfer to try is straight East on 46th Street to Mill Creek Road, out Mill Creek to State Highway 66, North on 66 to Shadeland Drive, and all the way to the Country Club.

... "Like Your Pleasure Big?" ... ride an elephant!

6. THE SAND BLAST

A great deal has been written on playing your ball from a sand trap. Perhaps the best advice to beginners was voiced by Cary Pitnew in his popular book "Golf is for Clods." Cary, three-time loser of the British Open wrote: "You hit the ball into a sand trap and where are you? I mean, only a jerk hits his ball into a sand trap. I mean, you gotta be a jerk to do that. Am I right?"

7. THE PUTT

The secret of successful putting lies in playing the natural roll of the green. It is a fact that the only flat greens the golfer will encounter are the ones that are flat. The remainder are not. These are best played by bearing in mind the Freen putt-formula:  $C^2 \times R^2 + L = 287\%$ , where C stands for the golfer's height, R is the angle of the green in degrees, and L is the distance in inches to the clubhouse bar.

8. KEEPING SCORE

The secret of making a good golf score lies almost completely in the use of poor addition. Forgetting to carry numbers from one column to another produces excellent results. Some golfers report satisfaction with the system of adding the strokes on even holes and then subtracting the strokes on odd holes. But much of this tedious work can be taken off the shoulders of the beginning golfer by hiring a good dishonest caddy.

9. WINTER PRACTICE

In golf, as in anything else, only practice makes perfect. Contrary to the belief of many beginners, only a limited space is needed to iron out the kinks in your game. Work regularly on maintaining a casual expression while you kick the ball for a better lie. Tee off in your tile bathroom for practice in ducking the other fellows' shots. Pretend your dog is the pin and fire chip shots at him. And in whatever you undertake, cheat—cheat—cheat!

10. GIVING UP THE GAME

Most beginners soon come to the realization, after a few rounds, that golf is one miserable game. Giving it up is easier than you think. Many former golfers find that drinking takes their minds off the game. For others, gambling provides a new outlet for that competitive spirit. Sleeping late is also a good substitute. Or beating up your wife. Clubs can be sold, or used as attractive fireplace andirons.

... "When You Care Enough To Give The Very Best" ... be sure you can afford it!

ONE DAY'S ADVICE COLUMNS

PSYCHOLOGICALLY SPEAKING

By Sarah Jungblood, Ph.D.

Dear Dr. Jungblood,

We consider our son, Sidney, a gifted child, above average in intelligence. In order to encourage him in his seemingly insatiable thirst for knowledge, my wife and I presented him with a chemistry set for his 10th birthday last May 5th. Since then, several things have occurred in our home which have us concerned. One day we found the water in our fish tank a deep purple, and our rare specimens gulping for air. Another time, we discovered our prize cat absolutely devoid of its fur and mewing in pain.

There have been other incidents. We feel that Sidney is using his chemistry set for other than self-improvement purposes, and have decided to take it away from him. Do you think this is wise?

Mr. J. Fawnover

Dear Mr. Fawnover:-

Taking your child's chemistry set away from him at this point would probably do more harm than good. It is obvious that Sidney had some pent-up hostilities which he has worked out through experimentation. Denying him the set might frustrate him, thus creating new hostilities. Having allowed your son to work out his aggressions, he's sure to turn to constructive activities now that his desire for destruction has been satisfied.

THE HEART OF THE MATTER

by Miss Alliance

Dear Miss Alliance:-

For some time, I have been aware that my husband has been seeing another woman. I'm so upset about this, I simply don't know quite what to do.

If I come right out and accuse him of his infidelity, I'm afraid that all of our personal difficulties may be brought to a head, and the results would be the destruction of our seven-year-old marriage. But, on the other hand, I cannot go on living with him, knowing that the "business client" he is entertaining is really that "awful creature"!

Please help me!

Desperate

Dear Mrs. Desperate:-

Any advice I can give you can be summed up in one wonderful word: "Togetherness!" Under no circumstances should you divulge what you know to your husband. Make every effort to again become the girl he once fell in love with. Show that you are interested in him, his work, his hobbies. Do things together. The best way to beat competition is to eliminate any reason for its existence. No outsider can match the qualities that once inspired your husband to marry you.

Miss Alliance

ASK MR. FIXIT

Question: I want to paint my bedroom, but have no idea how to remove the wallpaper. I tried to peel off a section but couldn't make any headway. Can you help me?

Mrs. Kate P.

Answer: Wallpaper is easily removed by soaking down the walls with a solution of household solvent and water. A pot of boiling water left steaming on a portable electric stove overnight helps. The wallpaper will peel off easily next morning.

TIPS ON SPORTS

by "Sparky"
Gordon

Dear Sparky:-

I've been holding down a 183 average in my Wednesday night bowling league. However, for the past three weeks, my curve ball has been backing up before it hits the one-three pocket causing the loss of plenty of wood on my spares. How can I remedy this?

Ozgood Z.

Dear Ozzie:

The backup is usually caused by a slight outward turn of the wrist as the ball is delivered. I suggest that you take a firmer hold on the ball, using your usual grip, and follow through fully so that your arm comes straight up after letting go of the ball.

This will eliminate any possibility of that outward wrist turn.

Try it, and watch your average climb.

Sparky

APARTMENT HOUSE WALL MYSTERIOUSLY CRUMBLES

BRONX, N.Y. June 26. — The northeast wall of a six-story apartment house at 1234 Grand Concourse crumbled today, leaving 25 families homeless.

The collapse occurred early this morning as tenants went about their usual routines. Fortunately, no one was hurt.

The only scare came when Mrs. Kate Potchka, resident of the ground floor apartment, could not be found. But she turned up later, reporting that she had been down the block, returning a portable electric stove she'd borrowed from a friend.

Building inspectors were at a loss to explain the mysterious collapse. The only clue so far has been traces of water-logged plaster found in the rubble. A search for an underground spring has been ordered.

Residents of this six-story Bronx apartment house show mixed emotions in amazing on-the-spot photo taken only a few seconds after the northeast wall collapsed and fell.

TWO INJURED IN BOROUGH PARK BOWLING ALLEY

BROOKLYN, N.Y., June 26. — Two pinboys were critically injured in the Boro Park Bowling Academy last night when a fluorescent light fixture fell on them. The freak accident occurred while Ozgood Z'Beard was bowling on alley 9 during his regular Wednesday night league game. Somehow, Mr. Z'Beard lofted his last ball through the 25 foot plasterboard ceiling, dislodging the fluorescent light fixture. George San Georgio, and Clyde Clodd, working alleys 9 and 10, were directly below the fixture when it came crashing down. Besides felling the pinboys, the fixture also knocked down all ten pins on alley 9, giving Mr. Z'Beard a strike, and a high score of 243.

SUBURBAN COUPLE FOUND POISONED

GREAT NECK, L.I., June 26. — Mr. and Mrs. John Fawnover were found dead by their maid this morning when she entered the Fawnover's $40,000 Great Neck split-level ranch house.

A preliminary investigation by local police officials pointed to probable death by food poisoning. An autopsy was ordered by the coroner's office.

The Fawnover's only child,

Sidney, was asleep in his room when the discovery was made.

"I'm going to be a cowboy when I grow up!" he told reporters, obviously unaware of his parent's tragic death.

Clutching his treasured Chemistry Set in his tiny hands, little Sidney Fawnover is led from his home, apparently unaware of the tragic accident that has killed his parents.

NOTED COLUMNIST SUED FOR DIVORCE

RENO, NEV., June 26. — Helen Du Bois, known to millions as "Miss Alliance" through her syndicated advice to the lovelorn column appearing in papers from coast to coast, was sued for divorce today by Alphonse Du Bois, her fourth husband.

Mr. Dubois, a successful interior decorator, complained that Mrs. Dubois was seldom at home, her career as a columnist occupying almost all of her time.

In court, he remarked with nostalgia, "The last time I saw her was at the Premiere of 'Gone With The Wind!'"

TIME FIRES NEW COVER ARTIST

NEW YORK, N.Y. June 26. — Frank Kelly Freas, the noted cover artist who was hired recently by Time Magazine, was fired suddenly after he'd handed in seven prospective covers. A spokesman for Time issued the following statement: "All of Mr. Freas' characters looked like Alfred E. Neuman!" When asked to comment, Mr. Freas said, "What, me worry?"

PATRIOTISM

Right away, audience feels sympathy for Germans in first scenes which show Christian Diesel (Marlo Brandin) as a wholesome, athletic youth, proud to serve his country.

Especially when compared to lazy, cowardly, liquor-loving Broadway playboy Michael Wittcur (Dean Martini) who pulls strings and tries every trick he can to beat draft.

MILITARY DISCIPLINE

Pro-German feeling in audience runs high during scenes in desert when clever plan by Diesel results in exciting surprise attack and elimination of entire British Army.

Anti-American feeling runs high when Ackerman, fed up with Army abuses dating back to "From Here to Eternity" when they wouldn't let him play bugle, becomes a deserter.

PICTURES BY MORT DRUCKER

FINAL

Film reaches exciting climax as Ackerman and Wittcur, bitter with hate, patrol along picturesque German road . . .

as Diesel, humane to the last, destroys weapon and tries to surrender to the two men he could have easily killed.

... "Say It With Flowers" ... but accomplish it with money!

Here's a review of a new-type war film which, unlike all them corny old-type war films, takes a realistic viewpoint of World War II, and depicts the Germans as the carefree, good-natured fellows they were...and the Americans as the sadistic louses we know them to be!

LEADERSHIP

Picture shows warm, smiling, fun-loving German officers having rollicking good times in Paris, and winning the hearts of French people who once bitterly resented them.

While back in U.S., prejudiced and sadistic American Officers are shown allowing Noah Ackerman (Montgomery Clift) to suffer abuses and beatings by fellow soldiers.

MORALITY

Low moral standards of Americans is evident in picture when Wittycur, disgusted at seeing his girl friend openly responding to General's advances, volunteers for combat.

High moral standards of Germans is evident in picture when Diesel, after normal acceptance of friend's wife's affections, repels her when he learns of husband's death.

RETRIBUTION

A blast of gunfire ends this gentle German's life while Ackerman and Wittycur look on. Murderous blast comes from Irwin Shaw, disgusted author of original novel who growls as picture ends: "This wasn't the way I wrote it!"

If "Don Martin At Large" hasn't driven you bugs yet, he will with this tale . . .

The Great Mail Robbery

It is estimated that if every car in the United States were placed bumper-to-bumper . . . that's exactly what happens every week-end on the nation's highways! And that's exactly why certain manufacturers are successfully luring more and more frustrated drivers away from jammed highways, and on to wide-open waterways . . . by popularizing

Boating

... "Better Things For Better Living" . . . cost plenty!

STORY AND PICTURES BY DAVID BERG

Yes, boat makers are employing every trick in the book in order to lure week-end drivers into boating. Frinstance, they're even designing boats to look like automobiles . . .

Like this one! Note the trim lines and the two-tone color combination! Note the swept-back tail-fins! Note that it isn't even a boat! It's an automobile that drove off dock!

The outboard motor is an economical form of power for the boating enthusiast. In the old days, they were started by hand, which developed the boatman's arm, and vocabulary. This is where expression "The Vulgar Boatman" comes from.

Today's outboards are equipped with self-starters, remote controls, and enough gadgets to frighten a jet pilot. A good example of the modern craft is Irving F. Yardarm's boat (above). Irving lacks one gadget, though... the motor!

In the quest for more and more power, the use of multiple motors is growing among outboard motorboat enthusiasts.

For example, Alfred E. Neuman, of Far Rockaway, N. Y., in attempting to break the sound barrier on water, developed the multiple-motor idea to its ultimate conclusion. Unfortunately, the only thing Alfred broke was his own eardrums.

...Live Modern... spend more than you make!

Sailing is another popular form of boating. However, in a sailboat, one is completely at the mercy of the whims of the wind. No wind, and you're stuck. But with typical American ingenuity, sailboaters have licked this problem.

Here is another example of boating ingenuity and economy. Patrick Nudnick attached $12.95 electric Mixmaster to $3.95 bathinette creating an inexpensive outboard run-about. Only drawback being: extension cord cost $1,975.

The "houseboat" is also becoming a popular boating item. However, there's always the danger of a flooded basement.

If you want to know exactly how many friends and relatives you have, just buy a boat ... and then buy an adding machine.

** "The Breakfast Of Champions" ... is a bite of World Series money!

As more and more week-end drivers turn to boating, the law will have to eventually step in with all sorts of traffic regulations. Painting a white line will present a problem.

Since there won't be any billboards or shrubbery to hide behind, traffic cops will have to find new ways to trap speeders and reckless drivers. They'll have to submerge.

The "Drive-In Theater" as we know it will eventually disappear, and in its place, we'll have its waterway equivalent, the "Float-In Theater."

As the popularity of boating grows, automobile sales will slump. Detroit will panic. In an effort to boost sales, the car industry will retool and begin turning out automobiles that look like boats. One advantage of this will be the elimination of the back-seat driver. Now, she'll sit in front!

And finally, as the popularity of boating reaches its peak, and its cost reaches everyone, the "hotrodder" will invade our nation's waterways, replacing the shark, the barracuda, and "The Creature from 20,000 Fathoms" as the terror of the seas.

Yes, it is estimated that if every boat in the United States were placed gunnel to gunnel . . . that's exactly what will happen every week-end on the nation's waterways if this boating craze keeps up! And the nation's highways will be jammed worse than ever as millions of boating enthusiasts try to reach their boats. Which is exactly what certain big manufacturers are counting on. Then they can start popularizing . . . well, you know what's next!

THE chief native porter of our little safari rushed up to my late wife and myself and began chattering swiftly in Swahili. "Bwana and Mrs. Bwana," he began eagerly, "After leaving your comfortable home in Davenport, Iowa, only two days after your marriage, and sailing to the port of Dakar aboard a freighter of Panamanian registry, you have trekked across 1,800 miles of veldt, jungle, gumba and krudd to come within sight of the storied Mountains of the Moon. You are also two weeks behind in my pay!"

My late wife smiled the half-smile that has won us friends from Mombassa on the coast to the mud-walled native capital of K'kd-na'a, and slammed our chief porter across the side of the head with her rifle butt. I admired Evelyn's enthusiasm, which was clearly visible that morning under her tight fitting gumbamba. The porter lay whimpering on the ground and I tossed him a copper w'mmba'a for his troubles. He picked up the coin in his teeth, and with a weak smile joined the other native bearers.

The Wumbosa Comes to Greet Us.

We had pushed onward through the dense underbrush of the k'dula for less than three weeks after that when I sensed great excitement among the natives. Evelyn seemed eager to break up the demonstration by cracking a few more skulls with her rifle butt. But I halted her with a warning gesture that sent her sprawling.

Far up the trail, I could make out the form of a tall princely Buktuktu, his k'kkaty glistening in the sunlight. Obviously, the Jdu-Jdu drums had heralded our arrival and he was a royal welcoming committee.

He came forward with a smile that disclosed the sharply filed teeth of the Gwan'mbmba aristocracy. He bowed low, showing us his wumbt'tu, and I shielded Evelyn from the sight as best I could.

Evelyn and Her Big Mouth Again

We exchanged k'kash wordlessly and then Evelyn stepped forward and asked in Swahili, "What I want to know, and I want you to give me a straight answer to, is—I mean—you know—I want the straight poop. I don't want no uhhh — Well, you know what I want. I want a straight answer. I want to know if you really got cannibals up this way. I mean I heard the rumble. I know the story."

Our princely guest bowed low again, flashing the pointed tooth smile I had noticed two paragraphs above. "I do not speak Swahili," he said in Basuto.

I called one of the porters who spoke only Bantu. "What is he saying?" I asked in Swahili.

"Beats me," he said in Bantu. "I don't speak Basuto."

I turned to see that Evelyn was stroking her rifle nervously as the visiting chieftan stroked Evelyn nervously.

Sternwallow Participates in Native Athletic Event

Known as an all-round good fellow in his undergraduate days at South Dakota State Teachers College, the author was quick to join the natives in their simple games. Here, he apparently leads all challengers in a foot race.

This was the last picture taken on Sternwallow's final roll of film. Undeveloped negatives and manuscript for accompanying article were found floating in a bottle on Lake Chad. Sternwallow has not yet been found floating anywhere.

You sure don't need glasses!

Author's Wife Tests Traditional Cooking Utensil

African cannibals used kettles like these to baste victims before the practice presumably was abolished by missionaries. Here, Mrs. Sternwallow sits in a kettle while the natives gag it up.

This is believed to be the last photo taken of the author's wife before she passed away on safari from undisclosed causes.

We Couldn't Find the Pennsylvania Turnpike

Daring Sanford and Birdie Ugnaw, who Missed the Asian Continent in Their Last Assignment, Fumble The Ball Again

BY BIRDIE UGNEW

National Osographic Magazine Staff

OUR National Osographic Society station wagon rolled through Philadelphia, the quaint old city where the Declaration of Independence was once signed, and where the Kansas City Athletics were once located. Our assignment: to pick up the Pennsylvania Turnpike just outside Philadelphia, and follow the amazing highway to its western terminus 300 miles away.

We were all excited about the adventure that awaited us. The twins, Roy and Anastasia, frolicked in the back seat like two kittens, rubbing taffy apples into the upholstery. My husband, Sanford, still upset about not being able to get a drink in Philadelphia on Sunday, kept swerving up onto the sidewalk from time to time in an effort to bag one of the many quick, sure-footed pedestrians that abounded in the area.

The Pennsylvania Commissioner of Highways, a kindly native officer assigned to the old unvalled city of Harrisburg, had written us in English, telling what we might look forward to on our trip. He had described in glowing detail the fabulous Turnpike, constructed across the entire breadth of the state at a cost of $500,000 a mile. Looking back on our three exciting weeks among the natives of the Pennsylvania interior, I will always feel a certain pang of regret that we were never able to find the Turnpike.

Wherever we went, natives described the fabulous road in wide-eyed innocence. They spoke of it as a "four-lane eighth wonder of the world," winding through valleys and cutting through mountains to reach what they called "the Ohio country."

They told of filling stations lined with dozens of pumps, row on row. But their greatest awe was reserved for an outsider named Howard Johnson, who apparently decided just who should eat and who should go hungry along the Turnpike.

Sanford, who had given up reading road signs after an unfortunate experience some years ago when we were looking for Europe,

Nibi-Nibi— Island Paradise of the Pacific

BY YANCEY SLURG

"THIS island is all I ever want. This is my Shangri-La!" So spoke the grizzled white planter, Neville Brooks-Brother, gesturing expansively with the stub of an arm that had been left to him as a reminder of the native uprising of 1947.

Brooks-Brother leaned back on his wami-wami and stuck the yellow stem of a pipe in his toothless mouth. I learned later that his teeth had been pulled by the carefree, fun-loving islanders several years before in an effort to find where he hid his rum. "This is paradise," he said simply, shaking with a malarial spasm. "Here is an island which knows no war, no bigotry, no sanitation, no nothing!"

Brooks-Brother is the lone white resident living among some 200 natives on Nibi-Nibi, a tiny coral atoll some 12,750 miles southwest of Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

Uncharted except on the most detailed marine maps, Nibi-Nibi is indeed a tropical island of plenty. Here, except among the weak, want is unknown. Human sacrifices keep the population at a comfortably low level, and the native festivals also take their toll of the weak in body and mind.
